AN OLD FRIEND OF THE POLICE. Her Stenographer Opposes Her Divorced

The motion to confirm the report of the Con missioners and Sheriff's jury, finding Harriet Hubbard Ayer insane, and for the appointment of a committee of her person and estate, was argued before Justice Andrews of the Supreme Court yesterday.

No objection to the report was made, but dispute arose as to who should have the cus-tody of her estate. Charles W. Brooke, in be-dispute arose as to who should have the custody of her estate. Charles W. Brooke, in behalf of Herbert C. Ayer of Chicago, the divorced husband of Mrs. Ayer, their two daughters, and Mrs. Mary T. Wetherell, her sister, said that his clients favored the appointment of Henry T. Cutter, President of the Hegsman drug concern, as the committee. Mr. Brooke said they desired was worth more than $55,000, as catimated by the Sherin's jury. He said they desired some one appointed who would make a thorough investigation of her affairs, which, he said, would result in the discovery of outrageous and slaring frauds.

A letter from Herbert C. Ayer to Mr. Brooke, submitted on the motion, reads:

What I wish and hope that the Court will de is to appoint some good strong business man, who will have the courage and honesty to have the affairs of the Recamier Manufacturing Company thoroughly examined; and if it is done, I think you will find that those affairs have not been managed in the interests of Mrs. Ayer, But not only that, they will show that feet manufit of racality has been committed. I would recommend that you get the letter that the vice-Present of the Mr. Ayer, while the letter that the vice-Present of the Court of the Court of the Mr. Ayer, and the letter that the vice-Present is appointed to take charge of Mrs. Ayer affairs.

Dr. Morton gave a certificate of her insanity

Dr. Morton gave a certificate of her insanity and testified before the sheriff's jury.

In behalf of May S. Morrow, who had been grongrapher of Mrs. Ayer for four years, Lawyer Stophen H. Olin objected to the appointment of any one suggested by Mr. Ayer or the members of Mrs. Ayer's family, as she had been estranged from them. May S. Morrow presented an affidavit in which she speaks of the litigations over the Recamier Manufacturing Company between Mrs. Ayer, her daughter Harriet, Harriet's husband, Allen Lewis Beymour, and his father, James M. Seymour. The affidavit continues:

mour. The affidavit continues:

To intrust the person or property of Mrs. Ayer to those who have made unsuccessful aitempts to deprive her of all her property, and who have attacked her reputation and rendered her life miserable, would be a very great wrong. The peculiar ionelines of Mrs. Ayer's position and the nature of her maindy, which permits her to recognize those about her, make it cruel for her to aggest that her friendships should be wholly ignored and forgotten in the appointment of a custodian of her person.

She says Mrs. Ayer has not been on speaking terms for two years with the members of her family. Justice Lawrence reserved decision.

MILITARY BANDS FROM GERMANY.

They Will Play for Us Here Before Going to Chicago to Take Part in the Fair. The two great military bands which Germany is going to send to the World's Fair are to perform at a musical festival to be given it to perform at a musical festival to be given in this city from April 23 to April 29. They will be heard in no other cities beside New York and Chicaco.

The bands, one an infantry, the other a cavalry hand, were formed for the special purpose of this visit to America, and will insure many of the most famous performers on band instruments in Germany. The members were selected out of 2,000 applicants by a committee which included the leading musicians of the iterman army. They will be led by Royal Musical Director E. Huschwerh and Musical Director H. Herold.

Musical Inspector Rossberg of the Prussian army is to have charge of the concerts. The men will wear full parade uniforms. The infantry band will be dressed like the band of the Queen Elizabeth Guard, and the cavalry band will wear the blue and white uniform of the body guards. One of the features of the Performances of the avalry band will be the cold-fashioned valveless trumpet. This instrument is being extensively introduced into Frussian cavalry bands by the Emperor.

The concerts here will be in the Madison Square Garden. The net receipts will be devoted particularly to bringing from Germany to the World's Fair young artisans who canpossibility that he had caused an innocent man to be imprisoned for life, which was the sentence Hallissey got on being convicted for murder in the second degree. He was, therefore, decidedly relieved yesterday when Hallissey made a confession in the prison at hing Sing, to which he was taken on Thursday. Hallissey acknowledged that he fired the shot which killed McLaughlin and that his brother William had nothing to do with McLaughlin's taking off.

Hallissey was found guilty on March 17. His conviction was chiefly due to the testimony of his stepmether, who swore that she saw Hallissey fire at her brother and saw her brother fall. This testimony was such a surprise to Hallissey, who is dying from consumption, that he had a homorriage in court, and a physician was cailed to attend him. The court took a recess until he recovered.

William Hallissey, who was jointly indicted with him, was discharged on his own recognizance at the instance of Mr. McIntyre, who did not believe him guilty. He and Thomas has been imprisoned in the Tombs since Aug. 3, 1801.

There will also be displayed a fac-simile of the first page of the first Bible ever printed, the famous Mazarin Bible of 1450, and a copy of the Biblia Pauperum. representing the style of printing from wooden blocks before the invention of movable types.

gether with the Greek text, will also be exhibited.

In order to demonstrate the great advancement made in the publication of the Bible in other tongues, the Rev. Dr. E. W. Giman, who has charge of the foreign department of the society's business, has selected a large number of works that are printed by the society in nearly all of the 300 languages in which the Scriptures have been published. One case will be especially devoted to the Chinese language and its colloquials, to exemplify the stupendous difficulties that have been overcome in mastering the multitude of dialects which the Celestial tongue presents to the translator.

Like many other volumes in the collection, the Chinese books will lie with open pages, so that they may be more readily seen. Copies of Marshman's "The Delegates," Bridgman & Culbertson's and Dr. Schereschewsky's versions of the Seriptures in Chinese will be included in the list of these works. Specimens of the Mandarin, Foochow colloquial, Ningpo culloquial, Swatow colloquial, and others will be among those to be presented. Complete or detached portions of the Scriptures in the Turkish. Arabic, Syriac, Fersian, Urdu, modern Greek Siamese, Burmese, Pall, Tamit, Tulu, Marsthi, Fonapo, Tibetan, Mpongwe, Shestsiva, Azerbijan, Osmali-Turkish, Mende, and other languages will form part of the exhibit.

A separate case has been provided for the Scriptures in Hawatian, Ebon, Slayle, and Bul-Shesisiva, Azerbijan, Osmali-Turkish, Mende, and other languages will form part of the exhibiti.

A separate case has been provided for the Scriptures in Hawatian, Ehon, Slavic, and Bulgarian, together with bilingual specimens showing the two languages in parallel columns. Of these are the New Testament in German and English, in French and English. In French and English, in Forturuese and English, in Welsh and English, in Danish and English, in Mentangas in Administration of the cases will be a display of a quantity of curlous objects which have been taken in barter in exchange for the Scripturea in far-off lands, and remain a lasting record of the travels of American missionaries. In this collection is a copper coin that is more than eighteen centuries old. It was coined in China in the year 25 A. D., and was given in exchange for one of the Gospels to an agent of the society in 1890. Several couries, queer African shells, which are used as money by the natives, and a number of anoiest copper coins, received by Dr. Jacob Chamberlain in return for Bibles during his famous tour through the interior of India, are interesting relics that will be shown. Other notable curlousties are a photograph of a Roman manuscript of the Pentateuch that is over 1881 vents old. This manuscript was found in China in a Hebrew synagogue, where it had been in use forcenturies, it is supposed.

The work of the society and an explanation of the exhibit will be told by a handsome pamphlet, in itself containing 242 specimen versea in as many loreign tongues, in addition to its descriptive matter.

Perhaps the most unique feature of the Bible Society's part in the Exposition will be a free distribution of the New Testament, and to meet the prolable demand 250,000 copies of the five-cent edition leve already been printed. Mr. William Foulke, the Treasurer of the Society, has the exhibit is charge, and will leave for Chicago early in April.

The Food Exposition.

The last week of the food exposition at the Lenox Lyceum will undoubtedly be a fitting close to the success which the exposition has attained. Such an exposition as this one in the Lenox Lyceum is substantial in results to the Lenox Lyceum is substantial in results to the inquiring housewife, and profitable to the exhibitors who have put their money and energy into the making of the show. The variety of goods displayed, the freedom with which they are distributed, and the cars taken by the attendants to explain their uses gives the exposition an extraordinary prominence, just at this season of the year. As it will close Saturday evening next a visit should not be neglected.

He was found on March 28 wandering about in Canal street. He is a hundsome little fellow, with black hair and big brown eyes. U. S. BOOK COMPANY'S CONDITION. Creditors Accept a Settlement Proposed by

The reorganization committee that has been at work on the affairs of the United States Book Company, trying to devise a plan for a settlement other than by a Sheriff's sale. has issued a report that contains considerable encouragement. The bonded indebtedness of the company, all the various concerns being treated as comprising the one, is $1,000,000. secured by a mortgage upon almost the whole of the publishing plant and book plates, and there are other liabilities amounting to another $1,000,000 for money borrowed, material furnished, and work done. The assets consist of books and book stock, cash, book accounts, bills receivable, and some plates free of mort-of books and book stock, cash, book accounts, bills receivable, and some plates free of mort-stage.

The committee says the stock of merchandise will have to be mainly looked to by the creditors. To realize profitably on this the stock must be disposed of gradually, according to the market. Publishers generally dreaded the effects of the sudden throwing on the market of the immense stock gathered by the company. If the present plan is successful, that danger will be avoided.

The creditors are asked to agree to these terms: Holders of prior liens to relinquish their preferences to the extent of 50 per cent, of their claims. Freferences of 50 per cent, amounting to about $150,000 to be allowed said holders of prior liens. After the payment of said preferred ciaims, 25 per cent, of all other claims to be paid. And thereafter payments to be made in proportion to the amount of all demands.

Nearly all the creditors have agreed. The business will remain in charge of the reorganization committee, who will take it out of the hands of the receiver as soon as arrangements can be made for having it properly managed.

Vassar College Poughrexpsie, March 25.—The fifty-three members of the sentor Cines—A $6,000 Scholarship.

Vassar College received a handsome surprise on Tuesday. The last day before the Easter wacation. It came from one of the trustees, who is constantly doing something for the Roysener, 1885, in Russia. He wants an annulment on the ground that she was then the wife of Charles Rubin of Rogschek, Russia. He says the engagement paper and marriage agreement may contain something he does not know, and that they probably refer to a ghet, or rabbinical divorce, which she may have obtained from Rubin.

of Minerva, the goddess of wisdom, with palms and laurel branches on either side. Below the head are designed a globe, telescope, compass, and books. Two oars, tied together with a sliver bow, form the lower and narrow part of the handle. The gold bowl is engraved with a senior in cap and gown in the foreground, and in the rear another cap and gown on the tennis court. "Vassar Collego" is in raised letters on the back of the handle, and each spoon is engraved with the initials of its owner. The generous designer is a stanch supporter of the students who are pleading for cap and gown, and is doubtless confident that his design will be true to Vassar senior life in a very short time.

A valumble addition has recently been made to the art department in the shape of two volumes of "The Old Italian Masters." engraved by Timothy Cole. The books are pullished by the Century Company. The sixty-eight engravings, which are not bound in the books, are on Japan paparand printed by hand by J. C. Bauer. All are from the original pictures. Accompanying the two volumes is a book containing the engravings and articles which appeared in the century for 1801 and 1892.

The Greek Play is announced for May 20, the last Friday of the month. in the opera house in Poughkeepsle. There will probably be no general sale of tickets. The prices are $1 and $2. Mr. Charles A. Spring of Chicago has given to the college this week a scholarship of $0,000, the second which he has given this year.

A WHIM OF THE GIRLS.

They Collect Tea Cups and Spoons As Sou-venirs of Filriations.

It is quite the fancy now for girls still in the debateable country between school days and and full-fledged young ladyhood to have dainty tea tables in their own rooms, with al the requisite appurtenances, and to recieve their girl friends at the regular tes hour on certain days. The cups and saucers and spoons are usually souvenirs from some harmless summer direction or holiday outing. and have all sorts of mystic symbolism for the girl herself and her friend and "gossip," to to whom she tells all her confidences.

One little miss of sixteen has on her table a Yale cup, painted with forget-me-nots and stamped with the seal of Yale. The spoon fluints the Ya'e flag in blue enamel and has the lorget-me not in the bowl. Another cup is wreathed round with ransies and the spoon has the heart flower for a landle. There is a cun tinted like the inside of a sea shell and painted with feathery sea weed that one little maid keeps as a souvenir of last summer's ocean voyage, and a spoon with an English cont of arms that one hewitched English routh purioined from the family collection to please his pretty American cousin.

There is nothing a girl enjoys half so much as these little teas, all her own, for from the time a girl bnip can talk her instact of heapitality develops and manifests itself in her doll fea parties, never to quite die out until her hands are too old and tottering to lift the tea urn. It is one of the inherent womaning graces like motherhood which in the zirl baby thrills as surely in the protecting tenderness she lavishes on her sawdust doll as in the solf-saerifice with which she promeanedes the floor until dawn with the teathing baby a man would tose out of the window if he dared before midnight. and have all sorts of mystic symbolism for the
